Jefferson County Commission Launches New Website

On Thursday, September 10, 2015, the Jefferson County Commission will be launching their new website. The website has been redesigned to provide better service and more open, accessible county government.

The new Jefferson County Commission website offers a clean, modern design, and easy-to-navigate functionality. A new layout makes the site's content simpler to find. We have updated our website's video capabilities to make meetings available on more devices.

The website will continue to be updated frequently adding enhancements to improve and simplify other pages on the site.

Please visit our new designed website at www.jeffersoncountywv.org.
