Basics 1 Skywarn Stormspotter Class to be held in Shepherdstown on February 27

The National Weather Service in Sterling, VA will hold a Basic Stormspotter Class from 6-9 p.m. at the Shepherdstown Fire Department in Shepherdstown on February 27. Jefferson County Homeland Security and Emergency Management is coordinating the training.

The classes are FREE and designed to educate the public on weather threats in this area, as well as strengthen the ties between the NWS and the local community. The more spotters the NWS has out there, the faster vital ground truth information gets to the NWS forecasters who make the decisions to issue life saving weather warnings.

The Basics 1 course is a prerequisite for all other courses. Basics I is a good general overview of severe weather for the general public. Upon completion of the course, you will be registered in the program by the NWS. You will receive a spotter code from the NWS within 6 weeks.

Training in Basics I includes:

The basic organization of the National Weather Service

The role and importance of the Skywarn spotter

NWS Products and the Watch/Warning/Advisory system

Thunderstorms

Thunderstorm threats:

Lightning

Flooding

Hail

Tornadoes

Downbursts

How to report vital info to the NWS

The role of amateur short-wave (HAM) radio in the Spotter Program

West Virginians Step Up to Help Neighbors

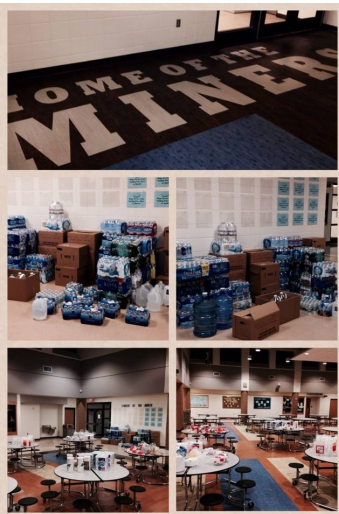

The light atop the West Virginia Capitol came on January 9th, indicating a State of Emergency and that the WV Department of Homeland Security and Emergency Management's Emergency Operations Center was activated.

One week into the new year, nine counties in West Virginia received an emergency declaration due to a chemical release into the Elk River, affecting the water supply to more than 300,000 of our fellow West Virginians. The water could not be used for anything, other than flushing toilets. Bottled water throughout the nine county region that was available in local stores quickly ran out as residents cleared the shelves trying to do "Just In Time Preparedness."

The purpose of this editorial is to highlight the spirit of West Virginians who did what West Virginians do....come together to help one another in time of need.

Across the Mountain State, residents in the unaffected counties collected bottled water, liquid baby formula, wipes, hand sanitizer, microwaveable food, paper plates, napkins, plastic ware, and other commodities, as well as cash, to send to Southern West Virginia to relieve their suffering. Jefferson County's own Shepherd University was one of the drop off points for collections organized by WV Senator, John Unger. A BIG shout out to all who donated!

As with all disasters, there were moments that highlighted the very essence of generosity. One of these came from Mingo Central Comprehensive High School, who was scheduled to play Sissonville High School in basketball. Sissonville did not have water and wasn't expected to for days. MCCHS posted on their facebook page that they were taking donations of water and other commodities for their neighbors in Sissonville who were without water. After the game, they delivered all of this to the opposite team and their families. Truly, awesome students and caring neighbors.

Well known West Virginia native, Bishop T.D. Jakes had two tractor trailers full of bottled water delivered to Charleston fire stations that were serving as water distribution locations and to the Abundant Life Church. The water was delivered to the public from there. Bishop T.D. Jakes is the senior pastor of The Potter's House in Dallas, TX and a Charleston native. Charleston city leaders say that Bishop Jakes called Sunday afternoon asking if he could help.

While the time will come for accountability for this disaster, and a time to take a new look at regulations and other issues, neighbors helping neighbors was once again the priority. As your Emergency Manager, I want to remind you to have a week's supply of food, water, and other supplies at home. It takes a few days for help from the outside to start rolling in, so each of us has to be able to take care of ourselves, our families, and our pets/farm animals for a few days until that can happen. If you need assistance in learning how to put together a family disaster supply kit, go to www.ready.gov for ideas.
